Council of Europe

Liechtenstein is a member of the Committee of Experts on the Evaluation of Anti-Money Laundering Measures and the Financing of Terrorism (Moneyval) and of the Council of Europe Counter-Terrorism Committee (CDCT). Liechtenstein chairs Moneyval since 2015. In December 2017, the Director of Liechtenstein's Financial Intelligence Unit, Daniel Thelesklaf, has been re-elected president of Moneyval for another two-year term. A country examination of Liechtenstein is conducted in 2019/2020.

Liechtenstein appreciates the contribution of the Council of Europe in the area of preventing and suppressing terrorism and terrorist financing on the basis of its commitment to democracy, human rights and the rule of law, and is fully committed to the ongoing work of the two Committees.

Egmont Group

Liechtenstein plays an active role in the Egmont Group, the international association of national financial intelligence units, and supports the activities with expertise. The Director of Liechtenstein's Financial Intelligence Unit, Daniel Thelesklaf, is a member of the Egmont Committee as Representative of the Europe II region.

Financial Action Task Force (FATF)

Liechtenstein fully co-operates with the FATF, through membership in Moneyval, and is committed to implement the FATF Recommendations on Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing.

Bilateral agreements

In the framework of strengthened regional cooperation, Liechtenstein has concluded a treaty with its neighbouring countries Switzerland and Austria which entered into force on 1 July 2001 (LGBl. 2002 No. 122). The objective of the treaty is to cooperate regarding mutual security interests, to further develop close cooperation among police and border police, and to counter transboundary threats and international crime effectively by means of a cooperative security system.

Based on the Customs Union Treaty, Liechtenstein and Switzerland concluded a bilateral Agreement on the Transboundary Movement of Firearms (LGBl. 2011 Nr. 571) in order to preserve the integrity of the Schengen Acquis. As a result, Liechtenstein respects the terms of Directive 2008/51/EC of the European Parliament and the Council of 21 May 2008 amending Council Directive 91/477/EEC on control of the acquisition and possession of weapons.

1.2 What national legislation has been adopted in your State to implement the above-mentioned agreements and arrangements?

In October 2003, the Liechtenstein Parliament adopted an Anti-Terrorism Package amending the Criminal Code (CC), the Code of Criminal Procedure (CCP) and the Due Diligence Act (DDA). In December 2008, the Liechtenstein Parliament passed legislation aimed at substantively implementing international standards in the fight against money laundering and combating the financing of terrorism. The legislative package included in particular a comprehensive revision of the DDA, selected amendments to the CC and a new International Sanctions Act (ISA). The legislation entered into force in March 2009. Liechtenstein's legal texts are available online.²

In April 2016, a further strengthening of the Criminal Code (CC) entered into force in relation to the fight against terrorism. New criminal offences were established including offences of certain acts that may lead to the commission of terrorist offences, namely public provocation, recruitment and training for terrorist purposes and incitement to terrorism. The maximum sanction for TF has been increased to 10 years imprisonment.

In June 2017, the Liechtenstein parliament revised the ISA in order to fully implement the FATF's recommendations on combating the financing of terrorism and to strengthen the legal protection of individuals affected by sanctions. The revision included the possibility to create own sanctions lists or to adopt other countries' sanctions lists, and a reduction of the amount of time needed from a person's listing by the UN Security Council to its implementation in Liechtenstein. UN sanctions relating to financing of terrorism are now implement without delay.

² www.gesetze.li. English translations of some laws are available on <http://www.regierung.li/law>.

Individual terrorist acts

According to the CC, certain criminal acts are terrorist acts if they are able to produce profound or enduring disturbances of public life or to profoundly affect the economy, and if they are executed intentionally with the aim to frighten the population, to coerce public bodies or an international organisation or to seriously shock or destroy the political, constitutional, economic or social structure of a state or an international organisation. Among these criminal acts are homicide, intentional bodily harm, offences against personal liberty (such as extortionate kidnapping, coercion and dangerous threat), criminal offences against the public order (such as arson, creating an explosion and poisoning).³ These criminal offences are also sanctioned in case of attempt⁴ or complicity⁵. Any person providing a safe haven to terrorists is therefore also responsible for the crime committed insofar as providing a safe haven contributes to the commission of the crime. Sanctions for terrorist acts can go up to one and a half times the maximum sentence for the criminal act as fixed by the CC.⁶ The financial support of terrorist acts is a criminal offence sanctioned with up to five years of prison.⁷

Terrorist organisations

The CC defines a terrorist organisation as a union of more than two people established for a certain length of time with the objective of one or several of its members to commit one or several terrorist acts.⁸ The participation in and the financial support of a terrorist organisation are sanctioned with up to 10 years of imprisonment while the leading of a terrorist organisation is sanctioned with up to 15 years of imprisonment.⁹

Jurisdiction

As a basic principle, all criminal acts committed on Liechtenstein territory are punishable according to Liechtenstein law. In addition to this rule, domestic legislation applies to certain crimes committed abroad, regardless of the law of the place of commission¹⁰. With respect to terrorist acts and the leading of or participation in a terrorist organisation, criminal responsibility can be established if the crime itself is committed abroad, regardless of the laws of the place of commission, and if there is a domestic connecting factor as set out by law (e.g. if the perpetrator is a Liechtenstein citizen or resident or if the perpetrator is a foreign national staying in Liechtenstein who cannot be extradited). Similar provisions apply for the financing of terrorism.

Confiscation and forfeiture

Profits obtained from or for the commission of a criminal offence are to be confiscated by court under certain conditions.¹¹ Furthermore, property at the disposal of a terrorist association or property that has been provided or collected as a means of financing terrorism is to be declared forfeited under certain conditions, even if the property derives from an offence for which Liechtenstein jurisdiction does not apply if the offence is punishable under the law of the State where it was committed.¹² Generally, forfeiture can apply to all property and items located in Liechtenstein.¹³

1.3 What are the roles and missions of military, paramilitary and security forces and the police in preventing and combating terrorism in your State?

The Principality of Liechtenstein does not maintain any military forces. Please refer to the note of the Permanent Mission of Liechtenstein to the OSCE dated 26 November 1998 concerning the „NIL report on VD 94 Commitments“.

The national police force is the only armed authority in Liechtenstein and is competent for combating and prosecuting terrorist activities and groups. The criminal investigation division within the national police force is in charge of these tasks. The search for terrorists and terrorist groups as well as the enforcement of requests for mutual legal assistance is part of its mission. The head of the criminal investigation division coordinates the cooperation with foreign countries in prosecuting terrorist activities.

1.4 Provide any additional relevant information on national efforts to prevent and combat terrorism, e.g., those pertaining inter alia to:

— Financing of terrorism;

In addition to the provisions against the financing of terrorism, the CC criminalises money laundering in line with international standards and thoroughly implements the related international sanctions regimes. Liechtenstein's Financial Intelligence Unit (FIU) coordinates the fight against money laundering and terrorist financing domestically by chairing the inter-institutional AML/CFT working group. The FIU also implements the International Sanctions Act with regard to UNSCRs as well as sanctions/restrictive measures issued by the EU. It receives analyses and disseminates intelligence for the detection of cases of money laundering, predicate offences for money laundering, organised crime as well as the financing of terrorism and heads Liechtenstein's delegation to MONEYVAL. Liechtenstein as an EEA member state is fully committed in transposing the EU-Money Laundering Directives. Lately, Liechtenstein has adopted new legislation as well as amendments to various existing acts with a view to implement all recommendations deriving from Liechtenstein's last country assessment by the IMF/Council of Europe (MONEYVAL) as well as the 4th EU-Anti Money Laundering Directive. The preventive measures set out in the 4th EU-Anti Money Laundering Directive have been implemented into Liechtenstein law. The relevant provisions can be found in the Law on Professional Due Diligence to Combat Money Laundering, Organised Crime and Terrorist Financing and the associated Due Diligence Ordinance. The revised rules came into effect on 1 September 2017.

The Financial Market Authority (FMA) is an independent supervisory body overseeing Liechtenstein's financial sector. All financial and relevant non-financial institutions must be licensed by the FMA on the basis of internationally accepted criteria. The FMA sanctions non-compliance with the DDA/DDO by supervised entities and can refer such violations to the Office of the Public Prosecutor and notify the FIU.

Non-profit sector charitable organizations that have received tax-exemption status must be registered with the Public Registry. In accordance with article 108 of the Law on Persons and ¹² Sections 20b and 20c CC.

¹³ Section 65a CC.

Companies, all non-commercial organisations must have a director who is subject to the DDA. According to the new Liechtenstein Foundation Law, which entered into force in April 2009, charitable foundations are subject to mandatory and on-going supervision by a newly created Foundation Supervision Authority and by an audit office established as an organ of such foundations. The use of charitable organizations for the financing of terrorism is criminalized in Liechtenstein, and the activities of charitable organizations are subject to oversight.

The International Sanctions Act, which entered into force in March 2009 and was revised in 2017, brought the domestic legislation in line with the current realities of the prevailing international sanctions regimes (UN-sanctions and EU-sanctions or restrictive measures). The law improves the legal basis for co-operation with international organisations in the implementation of sanctions and for data protection, sets clear responsibilities for enforcement and increases the penalties for sanctions violations.

— Border controls;

Liechtenstein and Switzerland form a Customs Union since 1923. On the basis of this treaty, there are no controls at the internal border between Liechtenstein and Switzerland, while the external borders of both countries are being controlled by Swiss authorities. Due to Liechtenstein's accession to the Schengen System, Liechtenstein and Switzerland have been negotiating a new treaty regarding the legal mandate of the Swiss Border Guard on Liechtenstein territory beyond the past delegations on the basis of the 1923 Treaty on the Customs Union, in particular regarding the police powers of the Swiss Border Guard. This new treaty was signed on 3 December 2008. It specifically allows the Liechtenstein Police to delegate to the Swiss Border Guards the authority to control cash couriers on Liechtenstein territory.

— Travel document security;

Liechtenstein passports and identity documents fulfil all requirements concerning protection against forgery, data security, and international verifiability. Police cooperation in this area is ensured through close cooperation with the corresponding Swiss bodies (especially with the Conference of Cantonal Police Commanders KKPKS). Furthermore, there are numerous regional working groups with the police authorities of the neighbouring countries Austria, Germany, and Switzerland (e.g., Lake Constance Police Association, Police Concordat of Eastern Switzerland, Conference of the Police Presidents of the European Lake Constance Region). In addition, there is close contact with the Swiss police authorities and the Swiss justice department on both a personal and data system level.

— Container and supply chain security;

On 23 March 1923 Switzerland and the Principality of Liechtenstein concluded a Customs Union Treaty under which the national territories of Switzerland and the Principality of Liechtenstein were brought together to form a common customs area. For this reason a great number of Swiss laws are applicable in Liechtenstein. The information provided by Switzerland concerning container and supply chain security is therefore relevant for Liechtenstein as well.

— Security of radioactive sources;

— Use of the Internet and other information networks for terrorist purposes;

The Liechtenstein Police have a specially trained economic crime unit designed to combat all forms of financial crime, including terrorist financing, as well as a special IT Unit equipped to intercept internet communication.

— Legal co-operation including extradition;

Liechtenstein considers international co-operation in the fight against terrorism as crucial. Therefore, Liechtenstein co-operates with other states both in the area of extradition and mutual legal assistance and within the framework of international organisations committed to the fight against terrorism, such as the United Nations, the OSCE, FATF and the Council of Europe.

Furthermore, Liechtenstein's FIU is an active member of the Egmont Group, the worldwide association of national financial intelligence units, which supports and promotes the mutual exchange of information at the international level. As part of cooperation within the Egmont Group, the FIU concluded several bilateral Memoranda of Understanding and cooperation agreements.

The procedures for mutual legal assistance in criminal matters and extradition are determined by the provisions of the Legal Assistance Act (LAA). The Ministry of Justice is the competent authority for the receipt and transmission of requests for legal assistance or extradition. The Ministry of Justice also decides about the prima facie admissibility of such requests.

If admissible, requests for legal assistance or extradition are transmitted to the Court of Justice. Decisions about legal assistance by the Court of Justice are subject to appeal both by the public prosecutor and by the person that is affected by the legal assistance demanded. Legal assistance may include the transfer of documents, items or information, citation before a foreign court and the transfer of imprisoned persons for evidence.¹⁴ With regard to extradition, the person to be extradited has the right to demand a trial before the Appeals Court.¹⁵

The LLA's provisions are subsidiary to the several bilateral and multilateral treaties that include provisions on legal assistance and extradition and to which Liechtenstein is a State Party.

In general, according to the LLA, any terrorist activities as criminalised by the Liechtenstein Criminal Code (CC) are subject to legal assistance and extradition. Liechtenstein citizens may refuse extradition unless, for example, co-operation with the International Criminal Court is concerned.¹⁶ In the case where a person suspected of a terrorist activity is not extradited, the person can be prosecuted under domestic jurisdiction.

— Safe havens and shelter to terrorists and terrorist organizations.

¹⁴ Sections 52 to 54a LAA.

¹⁵ Section 33 LAA.

¹⁶ As determined in the Law on the Co-operation with the International Criminal Court and Other International Courts.

Providing safe haven to terrorists and their supporters is specifically and fully criminalized in Liechtenstein, albeit without the use of the phrase “providing safe haven”. Under the Liechtenstein Criminal Code, not only the principal perpetrator of a crime, but any person that “contributes” to the commission of a crime bears criminal responsibility (article 12 Criminal Code).¹⁸ With respect to terrorist offences, such criminal responsibility is also established in cases where the crime itself takes place in another country (article 64 paragraph 1 Criminal Code), irrespective of the laws of that country. Any person providing safe haven to terrorists would therefore be equally responsible for the crime committed insofar as providing safe haven contributes to the commission of the crime.

The small size of the country (160 km²; population 38’000) turns out to be an advantage with regard to refugee questions and therefore also with regard to relevant aspects of counter-terrorism: It is difficult to be present in the country without the knowledge of the authorities. An important point in ensuring that asylum seekers are not involved in terrorist activities is the precise determination of the person’s identity and previous place of residence. According to article 36 of the Asylum Law, a foreign person is not granted asylum if there are reasons for exclusion from refugee status. In particular, refugee status is not granted if:

- there are substantive grounds to suspect that the asylum seeker represents a serious threat to the security of the country;
- an asylum seeker has been convicted in a final judgement of a serious crime after his/her arrival in Liechtenstein;
- there are serious grounds to suspect that the asylum seeker has committed a crime against peace, a war crime or a crime against humanity according to International Law;
- the asylum seeker has committed a serious crime of common law outside the host country before the person submitted the asylum application;
- the asylum seeker is responsible for acts against the purposes and principles of the United Nations.

Article 40 of the Asylum Law provides inter alia that the Government shall revoke asylum or refugee status if:

- a refugee obtained asylum or refugee status through false testimony or through concealing essential facts;
- there is serious grounds to suspect that the refugee constitutes a serious danger to the security of Liechtenstein;
- the refugee constitutes a danger to the Liechtenstein society because he/she has been convicted in a final judgement of a serious crime.

2. Stationing of armed forces on foreign territory

2.1 Provide information on stationing of your States armed forces on the territory of other participating States in accordance with freely negotiated agreements as well as in accordance with international law.

The Principality of Liechtenstein does not maintain any military forces. Please refer to the note of the Permanent Mission of Liechtenstein to the OSCE dated 26 November 1998 concerning the „NIL report on VD 94 Commitments“.

3. Implementation of other international commitments related to the Code of Conduct

3.1 Provide information on how your State ensures that commitments in the field of arms control, disarmament and confidence- and security-building as an element of indivisible security are implemented in good faith.

Liechtenstein has always supported the international efforts in the fields of disarmament and non-proliferation and is convinced that the existing regime of multilateral treaties must constitute the basis for work in the area of non-proliferation. Full implementation, universal acceptance and, where necessary strengthening of the existing instruments, in particular in the field of verification and monitoring are indispensable elements to enhance international peace and security.

Liechtenstein is a State Party to the Treaty on the Non-Proliferation of Nuclear Weapons (NPT), the Chemical Weapons Convention (CWC) and the Convention on the Prohibition of Biological Weapons (BWC). In the field of conventional weapons, Liechtenstein is a State Party to the Convention on Prohibitions or Restrictions on the Use of Certain Conventional Weapons Which May Be Deemed to Be Excessively Injurious or to Have Indiscriminate Effects (CCW) and to the Convention on Cluster Munitions (CCM). Liechtenstein further supports the full implementation of the UN Programme of Action on Small Arms and Light Weapons. It has ratified the Protocol against the Illicit Manufacturing of and Trafficking in Firearms, Their Parts and Components and Ammunition, supplementing the United Nations Convention against Transnational Organized Crime and the Arms Trade Treaty (ATT).

3.2 Provide information on how your State pursues arms control, disarmament and confidence- and security-building measures with a view to enhancing security and stability in the OSCE area.

In addition to the explanation given in I. 3.1, within the context of the OSCE, Liechtenstein supports the work to update the confidence- and security- building measures and financially contributes to a number of OSCE extra budgetary projects.

Section II: Intra-State elements

1. National planning and decision-making process

1.1 What is the national planning and decision-making process in determining/approving military posture and defence expenditures in your State?

See I. 2.1

1.2 How does your State ensure that its military capabilities take into account the legitimate security concerns of other States as well as the need to contribute to international security and stability?

See I. 2.1

2. Existing structures and processes

2.1 What are the constitutionally established procedures for ensuring democratic political control of military, paramilitary and internal security forces, intelligence services and the police?

The national police force is the only armed authority in Liechtenstein. Control over the police is exercised, according to article 93 lit. a of the Constitution of the Principality of Liechtenstein, through the Government. Article 93 of the Liechtenstein Constitution reads: „The following matters fall particularly within the sphere of action of the government: a) Surveillance of all authorities and officials placed under the Government, and the exercise of disciplinary powers in respect of officials.” Articles 8 and 9 of the Law on the Police (Polizeigesetz, LGBI, 1989 No. 48) of 21 June 1989 support article 93 of the Constitution.

2.2 How is the fulfilment of these procedures ensured, and which constitutionally established authorities/institutions are responsible for exercising these procedures?

See II. 2.1

2.3 What are the roles and missions of military, paramilitary and security forces, and how does your State control that such forces act solely within the constitutional framework?

Liechtenstein has no military, paramilitary or internal security forces.

3. Procedures related to different forces personnel

3.1 What kind of procedures for recruitment and call-up of personnel for service in your military, paramilitary and internal security forces does your State have?

Liechtenstein has no military, paramilitary or internal security forces.

3.2 What kind of exemptions or alternatives to military service does your State have?

See I. 2.1

3.3 What are the legal and administrative procedures to protect the rights of all forces personnel as well as conscripts?

See I. 2.1

4. Implementation of other political norms, principles, decisions and international humanitarian law

4.1 How does your State ensure that International Humanitarian Law and Law of War are made widely available, e.g., through military training programmes and regulations?

See I. 2.1

4.2 What has been done to ensure that armed forces personnel are aware of being individually accountable under national and international law for their actions?

See I. 2.1

4.3 How does your State ensure that armed forces are not used to limit the peaceful and lawful exercise of human and civil rights by persons as individuals or as representatives of groups nor to deprive them of national, religious, cultural, linguistic or ethnic identity?

See I. 2.1

4.4 What has been done to provide for the individual service member's exercise of his or her civil rights and how does your State ensure that the country's armed forces are politically neutral?

See I. 2.1

4.5 How does your State ensure that its defence policy and doctrine are consistent with international law?

See I. 2.1

Section III: Public access and contact information

1. Public access

1.1 How is the public informed about the provisions of the Code of Conduct?

See I. 2.1

1.2 What additional information related to the Code of Conduct, e.g., replies to the Questionnaire on the Code of Conduct, is made publicly available in your State?

See I. 2.1

1.3 How does your State ensure public access to information related to your State's armed forces?

See under I. 2.1

2. Contact information

2.1 Provide information on the national point of contact for the implementation of the Code of Conduct.

Information on efforts undertaken to further implement UNSCR 1325

As a long-standing supporter of the UN Security Council's agendas on Women, Peace and Security (WPS) and Children and Armed Conflict (CAAC), and in connection with Liechtenstein's commitment against sexual and gender-based violence, Liechtenstein focuses on the tabooed, but widespread problem of sexual violence against men and boys in conflict situations.

Together with All Survivors' Project (ASP), the first international human rights NGO based in Liechtenstein, and in cooperation with Morocco, Switzerland and Spain in one case and Finland in the other, Liechtenstein organised two expert discussions on sexual violence against men and boys in the Central African Republic and Syria. Liechtenstein also highlighted this problem in statements in the UN Security Council, in the Third Committee of the UN General Assembly and in other informal meetings.
